Orphans Have Joyful Day at Marshall Hall.

ICE CREAM PYRAMIDS MELT

Home Remedies Restore Gastro-nomic Ravages, and then It Is Done All Over Again—Carroll Institute Gives Annual Treat to Parentless Boys—They Embrace Opportunity.

Ice cream and infinitum, frosted cakes, ad bustum, lemonade, until puregore and spirits of peppermint were a necessity, delectable quantities of oranges and bananas, and a great mass of other luxuries were laid before the orphans of St. Joseph's Academy, at Marshall Hall, yesterday. The fifty boys of the orphanage were the guests of Carroll Institute on its annual outing.

Twice were pine picnic tables heaped until they groaned; twice were the toasts sounded and the pleasure haunts depopulated, and an equal number of times did complete annihilation follow. Not a crumb was left, even though it caused a spontaneous loosening of belts and a unanimous and irresistible desire to sit down awhile.

Red, white, and blue ice cream, cut in large bricks and formed into towering pyramids, seemed of a sudden to melt into nothingness; sandwiches disappeared into the same cavities with alarming frequency; knives and forks were piled with the careful correctness of long instruction, but not without terrible execution. A sympathetic sister said that traveling gives one an appetite, especially on the water.

And everybody was glad of it yesterday. No matter how well the little fellows managed to drain their clanking tin cans or remove all vestiges of "eatins" from their plates, they were smiled on and encouraged by their guardians, the sisters, who enjoyed the process better than their charges.

Emergency Remedies Filled.

But when eating did not consume more than half the day. Recuperation demanded its portion, and home remedies, doled out in large spoonfuls, claimed their quota, while helpful exercise and unrestrained amusement also took some time. The carousal bore a continual burden of blue-shirted, knickerbockered boys as it creaked its accustomed round; the fish pond gave from its tin bottom enormous prizes of cologne and hand-painted cups and saucers; big bowling balls strained small arms; rifles caused quivers of excitement, and the sluggish river cooled many a little body heated by games of pull-away and baseball. As Little Orphan Annie and her sisters were not present, there was no dancing, but the carousal-strewn floor offered grand opportunities for skating and sliding.

It was 10 o'clock in the morning when the big, white steamer Macalester, carrying the spirit of charity, hurried its fastest down the Potomac, carrying a happy cargo, whose spirits rose as the tall spire of the monument vanished in the background, and whose reverence was evidenced as they stood, hat in hand, when Mount Vernon was passed. It was after 5 p. m. when the frolics were over, and the return trip, tired, and, it must be confessed, dirty, but conscious of having embraced an opportunity. How many stories of adventures the good Sisters heard last night, how many words of gratitude, it would be hard to say, but they saw enough to realize with joy that the boys had enjoyed themselves.

Evening Kept for Grown-ups.

The Carroll Institute excursion did not assume great proportions until the evening, when almost 1,000 persons sailed down the river. It was then that the dancing began in earnest, and the children were relegated to the background.

Sister Berchman and Sister Mary Lawrence took charge of the boys yesterday, while the following committee assisted with the excursion: H. A. Andrews, Francis J. Cleary, Harry Merritt, William Leply, Phil Warren, Dennis Connell, John Allen, John Fuller, Martin McKee, W. C. Sullivan, and Cornelius Desmond.

The orphans defeated St. Paul's Sanctuary Boys in a baseball game.

WANTS PURER FRANKFURTERS.

Dr. Lynch Would Bar Poisons and Adulteration from Sausage.

Prosecutions for the sale of sausage containing nitrate of potash, saltpetre, or spices, other than those natural to the species used for seasoning purposes, unless their presence is made known to the purchaser by means of a label, is recommended by Dr. R. L. Lynch, District chemist, following an analysis of ten samples of sausage in February last.

That this recommendation has not been acted upon is due to the fact that the District health authorities are awaiting the decision of the Department of Agriculture as to whether sausage containing the ingredients mentioned comes within the provisions of the pure food law.

MISS ADA RHODES IMPROVING.

Victim of Clarendon Trolley Wreck Expected to Recover.

Miss Ada Rhodes, one of the victims of the trolley car accident July 3, near Clarendon, Va., is still at the Georgetown Hospital. She is slowly improving, and while there is no doubt of her ultimate recovery, it will be some time before she will be able to walk.

Her injuries, it is claimed, were caused by the breaking of the seat of the car by the impact of the collision, and by the pressure of those in the crowd who were standing in front of her and who fell upon her when the crash came.

SUBLET DISTRICT PROPERTY

Canal Tenants Get Higher Prices, and Commission Objects.

Warned that Their Rentals Will Be Raised if Practice Is Not Discontinued.

The lessees of the District property along the James Creek Canal have been subletting the space, thereby obtaining rentals largely in excess of those paid to the District of Columbia, was the statement made yesterday by Daniel E. Gargies, secretary to Commissioner Morrow, following a visit of inspection to the District property.

In one instance, says Mr. Gargies, it was found that a tenant had sublet to one party, who, in turn, had sublet to another, each of them making a profit on the investment. The lessees were informed that this would not be tolerated in the future, and that wherever subtenants were holding the property at rentals greater than those paid by the lessees from the District, new leases would be entered into with them at an increased rental.

The present rate of rental is 75 cents per square foot along the canal, and in some cases this rental will be increased to $1.25 per foot. The wharf space along the canal is used by dealers in firewood, railroad ties, wood, sand, gravel, and similar commodities. A number of these leases expired July 1.

An inspection was also made of the water front, for the improvement of which the wharf committee, consisting of Mr. Gargies, W. J. Douglas, engineer of bridges, and J. R. Sutton, harbor master, are now considering plans to be presented by the Commissioners to the next Congress.

MASS OF EVIDENCE RECEIVED.

State Corporation Commission Considering Port Myer Wreck.

A special dispatch to The Washington Herald from Richmond, Va., says:

"The State corporation commission is in receipt of a mass of evidence from Washington and along the line of the Washington, Arlington and Falls Church Railroad relative to the Port Myer wreck. The communications are all general in nature, many of them containing clippings from the Washington papers with accounts of the accident and the condition of the road."

"The attorney for the State in Alexandria County has as yet sent no communication to the commission, contenting himself with filing a report of the corner's verdict, clipped from a newspaper. The commission will compile all the data bearing on the case, and will take some action in the regular order of business. Col. Joseph Willard, a member of the commission, made the following statement in connection with the case:

"The commission will possess itself of all the facts in the case, and take such steps as these facts and circumstances seem to justify. The original case of the Commonwealth, as to the relation of the corporation commission, against the Washington, Arlington and Falls Church Electric Railway, is still on the docket of the commission, and the commission is free to issue such supplementary orders in this case as may seem right and proper."

Express Company Sued.

Golden & Company, through Attorney S. T. Thomas, yesterday began suit against the George W. Knox Express Company for the recovery of $1,000 damages. Plaintiff's allege that on January 12, 1905, a refrigerating machine and engine valued at $2,000 was entrusted by them to the express company for safe keeping and storage, to be returned when demanded. It is claimed by the plaintiffs that through negligence and carelessness the machinery suffered and deteriorated in value by being greatly rusted.

FEARS FATE OF NO. 1

John Watson Applies to Court for Absolute Divorce.

WOULD AVOID POTTERS' FIELD

Watchman in Interior Department Declares Wife Failed to Concern Herself Over Burial of First Spouse. Charges Better Half Took His Earnings and Then Deserted Him.

Because she deserted him and took his savings with her, and also because she buried her first husband in "Potters' Field," John Watson, a watchman of the Interior Department, yesterday filed a suit asking the court to grant him an absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Watson. Speaking of his savings and of his confidence in his wife, Mr. Watson declares:

"When I moved to Washington I had deposited in bank in Laramie, Wyo., to the credit of my wife, Elizabeth M. Watson, all the money I had, which was about $300, for her support. It was thoroughly understood between us that she was to follow me here in the spring of 1904.

Deliberate Desertion Charged.

"I sent her a money order for the sum of $60. With this she promised to purchase a ticket and come here and live. But she got the money and would not come, wilfully deserting me, without any cause whatsoever, and went to Denver, Col., where she is now living."

Mr. Watson says that he did not know when he married her that her "prior husband," a Mr. Pope, who died, was buried by her to be buried in Potters' Field." Mr. Watson adds that he found this out since his marriage.

Mrs. Hosp Wants Divorce.

Alleging drunkenness, cruelty, and non-support, Mary C. Hosp yesterday began suit against John Hosp for a limited divorce, alimony, and the custody of their five children.

Mrs. Hosp, through Attorney C. E. Emig, alleges that her husband is an habitual drunkard, that he treats her with great cruelty, and that he fails to contribute to the support of herself and their children, although earning about $24 a week. Mrs. Hosp also asks the court to issue an injunction, restraining her husband from molesting her in any way. The couple were married January 24, 1890, in New York City.

FAVOR UNION STATION SITE.

Officials Confer on Situation of Columbus Memorial.

The proposition to erect on the plaza of the new union station a Christopher Columbus memorial was the subject of a conference yesterday, between Commissioner Morrow and D. W. Burnham, of Chicago, the architect of the station, and chairman of the Senate Park Commission.

Burnham later called on Col. Charles S. Brownell, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, in relation to the project, and expressed to him his approval of the plan, providing the memorial may be made to conform with the general architecture of the station. This was the opinion also expressed to Commissioner Morrow.

A definite decision has not been reached. Col. Brownell saying that he desired to further investigate the proposed plan. Commissioner Macfarland and Col. Brownell yesterday announced themselves as being in favor of the plan, which, in all probability, will be selected.

Congress at the last session appropriated $100,000 for the erection of the memorial.

RIVER VIEW'S BIG DAY.

Annual Tournament and Ball Will Be Held at Park To-day.

The twenty-first annual tournament and ball at River View will take place to-day in stead of in August, as has been the custom, and it is expected that the attendance will be larger than in past years.

The annual tournament at River View is a feature of each excursion season at the resort, and it is made the occasion for annual family gatherings, residents of this city and Alexandria going to the resort to spend the day with the members of their families who may be still living in the old places in Maryland and Virginia.

The committee in charge of the tournament reports that over twenty riders, including the most skillful from both sides of the river, have signified their intention of taking part in the contest. It will be a fight between the skillful horsemen of Maryland and Virginia for the privilege of crowning the Queen of Love and Beauty and her three attending maids.

The riding will begin promptly at 1 o'clock, but as the knights are all fine riders it is expected that it will be late in the afternoon before the contest is over and the judges are able to announce the winners.

Promptly at 8 p. m., after the last bout from the River View River View, the coronation ceremonies will begin. Mr. W. Brook Hunter, of Maryland, will deliver the coronation address, and at its close the Queen and the three maids of honor will be crowned with due ceremony.

Following the coronation ceremonies the Queen and her maids, with the winning knights, will open the coronation ball.

The officers in charge of the event will be:

Chief Marshal—George W. Hardy.

Chief Marshal—Thom, Archie Ware, and Ralph Parker.

Referee—Andy Boyer.

Judges—Capt. John T. Davis, T. B. Middleton, William T. Casey, J. Henry Murray, J. Steel Edley, Dr. Harry Nally, and J. A. Carlin.

Order of the day—Hon. J. Enos Ray.

Committee of arrangements—J. M. Kendrick and Stephen Gardella.

Committee on knights—Charles Middleton and Roger L. Manning.

The steamer St. Johns will leave her wharf here at 10 a. m., 2:15 and 6:45 p. m., and returning will leave River View at 12:15, 5, 8, and 10:30 p. m. If necessary, other steamers will be put in service to avoid any uncomfortable crowding of the boat.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER HERE.

Flag which Inspired Francis Scott Key Now at National Museum.

The delicate and time-worn American flag, the Star Spangled Banner of history, which inspired the national air in the brain of Francis Scott Key, as it waved gracefully in the breeze at Fort Mifflin during the war of 1812, is now on exhibition at the National Museum. It has been loaned to the department by Eben Appleton, of New York, the owner of the flag.

So delicate is the emblem of the early days when history was being made, that it has been placed on canvas with the view of preservation and to assist in keeping the cloth together as long as possible. The flag is twenty-eight by thirty feet. The emblem has been placed in a glass case in public view.

M'KINLEY ESTATE SETTLED

George B. Cortelyou Forwards Final Report as Administrator.

Trust Has Been Very Successfully Managed and Affairs Are in Excellent Condition.

George B. Cortelyou, Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday forwarded to the probate clerk at Canton, Ohio, his final report as administrator of the estate of the late President William McKinley. When the report is approved by the court Mr. Cortelyou's work as administrator will be over. He has managed the trust very successfully, and the estate is in excellent condition.

Mr. Cortelyou's offices on account of his association with the late President will not cease then. His work as a member of the McKinley Memorial Association will not end until in September, when the memorial at Canton is to be dedicated with imposing ceremonies, in which President Roosevelt will participate.

To Mr. Cortelyou has been committed the work of preparing the authorized life of William McKinley. His task will require much time and will not be completed for several years. It is intended to be for McKinley what the work of Messrs. Nicolay and Hay was to Lincoln.

Mr. Cortelyou has collected much of the data. He has completed the period covering the official life of the late President, and is now looking up the facts of his early life. A brief life of McKinley, to form a part of a series of lives of noted Americans, is in course of preparation by Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago. The trusted friend of the late President and former Comptroller of the Currency.
